- Cnidaria: Contains the colonial siphonophores and the scyphozoans—also known as the true jellyfish.
- Rotifers:
 - Most are non-motile, about 100 species are holoplanktonic.
 - Rotifers eat bacteria, detritus, other rotifers, algae or protozoa.
 - Rotifers are highly efficient reproducers.

The interface also shows a video feed of the resource person, Dr. T.S. Harsha, and a sidebar with PDF conversion options.

Rajendra Shri's Legacy Revered Publicly: Dr. Chandrasekharaiah

In a heartfelt tribute, retired principal and esteemed writer Dr. Chandrasekharaiah eloquently expressed the enduring impact of the revered figure, Rajendra Shri, during an online program commemorating the 105th birth anniversary of Shri Shivratri Rajendra Mahaswamy.

Dr. Chandrasekharaiah emphasized the perpetual presence of Rajendra Shri, portraying him as a guiding light whose actions continue to inspire. "His Holiness Rajendra Shri remains an ever-present force in our lives. His conscious actions and profound guidance have shaped our existence. His life is a testament to remembrance and admiration," Dr. Chandrasekharaiah affirmed.

Reflecting on Rajendra Shri's profound contributions, particularly in the realm of education, Dr. Chandrasekharaiah underscored his pivotal role in addressing societal challenges during the tumultuous period of India's independence. "Amidst the trials of poverty, illiteracy, and ignorance plaguing the nation, Rajendra Shri's dedication to education was monumental," he remarked. Establishing educational institutions across Mysore and Chamarajanagar, along with student hostels, Rajendra Shri's impact extended far and wide, even welcoming individuals from distant corners of Karnataka seeking refuge.

Dr. Chandrasekharaiah elaborated on Rajendra Shri's holistic approach, emphasizing his belief in education as a catalyst for societal progress. "Rajendra Shri understood that the pursuit of enlightenment transcends individual aspirations; it encompasses the betterment of society," he stated. Beyond mere academic instruction, Rajendra Shri imparted invaluable human values, nurturing compassionate individuals poised to contribute meaningfully to society.

Highlighting Rajendra Shri's advocacy for a secular society, Dr. Chandrasekharaiah emphasized his enduring relevance. "His legacy is not confined to a particular era; it transcends time," he asserted, affirming that Rajendra Shri's legacy will endure eternally.

The program, chaired by Prof. B.V. Sambasivaiah, Chief Executive of the college complex, commenced with his poignant words, "The divine essence of Dr. Shri Shivratri Rajendra Mahaswamy has graced our nation. Societal progress hinges upon the transformative power of education."

The development of Kannada should be done by us first

Dr. H.C. Honnappa

In a thought-provoking address, Principal Dr. H.C. Honnappa underscored the imperative need for Kannada self-development amidst the 65th Kannada Rajyotsava celebrations at JSS College of Arts, Commerce, and Science, situated on B.N. Road, Mysore.

"Before entertaining fears of external threats to Kannada, it is paramount for us, as Kannadigas, to reflect on our own utilization of the language. The advancement of Kannada should be our primary concern," remarked Dr. H.C. Honnappa, following the ceremonial hoisting of the flag.

Dr. H.C. Honnappa emphasized the profound cultural significance of Kannada, noting its role as a vibrant and linguistically rich language. Despite the prevalence of English in a globalized world, Dr. H.C. Honnappa stressed the necessity of prioritizing Kannada in various spheres, particularly in business and administration.

"Kannada stands as a beacon of cultural heritage, yet faces challenges from various quarters. However, it is incumbent upon us to ensure its vitality by embracing it as our primary language of communication," asserted Dr. H.C. Honnappa.

The event witnessed the participation of dignitaries including Head of Kannada Master's Department, Dr. S. Sudeep, who extended a warm welcome, and an invocation by Ms. Anusha. Mr. T. Gurupadaswamy, a Kannada Lecturer of the Undergraduate College, paid homage, while Dr. N. Maheshwari, Head of Kannada Department, facilitated the proceedings.

Faculty members, non-faculty staff, and students actively engaged in the celebratory program, affirming their commitment to the promotion and preservation of the Kannada language.
